IN THE NEWS...

Now that the winter months are upon us, unfortunately, injuries begin to spike as the roads get slippery and the sidewalks get icy. We want to help you prevent injuries such as bruising, ankle sprains, muscle strains, and even concussions that are now more likely to happen due to hard falls on slippery surfaces. Here are a few tips from all of us at Galloway Therapy to keep you safe:

1) If You Have to Fall, Do it Right!

Try to fall onto your side. This can prevent head and back injuries. Don't use your hands or elbows to break the fall, but let as much body surface contact the ground as possible. This disperses the impact.

2) Pay Attention to the Weather

If the weather is bad, stay at home if at all possible! If things get dicey outside while you're running errands, try to wait it out or head home before the worst of it peaks.

3) Dress Appropriately

No T-shirts, shorts, or sandals for you! Don those boots, gloves, and heavy coats to prevent frostbite.

4) Before Doing Physical Activity...

Doing a quick little warm up and later a cool down and stretch are vital during cold, wet weather! Even activities such as shoveling, going for a walk, chopping wood... they will get your heart pumping. (osrpt.com)
